MEET <MARKET>

Listen up, guys. RedEye wants to play matchmaker for you. "The Hookup" sets up Chicago singles for a night on the town. And we're looking for eligible bachelors.

The only catch: You have to dish about your experience with us and our readers. We pair you up, you go on the date and, afterward, you tell us how it went. C'mon, what do you have to lose? Sign up at redeyechicago.com/thehookup.

Chicago talent search

Think you got talent? Want to be on TV? Now's your chance.

NBC is holding auditions for "America's Got Talent" starting at 8 a.m. Sunday and Monday at McCormick Place (South Building, 2301 S. Lake Shore Drive). They—and host Nick Cannon (right)—are looking for performers to compete in the reality show for a chance at the million-dollar prize.

Auditions are open to all ages. Preregister at nbc.com/agt or visit agtauditions.com for more info.

What you need to know about the potential first pup

First Lady Michelle Obama let loose quite the scoop to People magazine this week: The girls are finally going to get that dog—in April—and she's looking at a rescued Portuguese Water Dog as a possibility. Here are some facts on the breed from the American Kennel Club's Web site.

- » The dog has been known for centuries along Portugal's coast and was prized for its strength, spirit and soundness.
- » Its coat is thickly plated and covers the whole body evenly. It can be either curly or wavy.
- » There are black, white and various tones of brown; also combinations of black or brown with white.
- » It has a range of temperaments: shy, vicious or unsound behavior.

Gwyneth and Joaquin are building buzz—but not for ‘Two Lovers’

From news services

NEW YORK Nobody’s paying attention to Gwyneth Paltrow and Joaquin Phoenix for their roles in the new romantic movie “Two Lovers,” which opened in Chicago on Friday. But that doesn’t mean nobody’s talking about them.

Case in point: The film’s recent premiere in New York, where the film is playing with limited distribution. Paltrow and Phoenix were a regular odd couple during their media appearances in the Big Apple.

While Phoenix, sporting a beard and sunglasses, glowered and squirmed from the attention, Paltrow posed with the grace of an actress known for her good upbringing and Upper East Side education at the Spence School.

HEAVY LIFTING

“Two Lovers,” which premiered at May’s Cannes Film Festival, is hardly a lightweight romance: The film opens with Leonard (Joaquin Phoenix) attempting to commit suicide. Leonard, who has moved back in with his parents following a canceled engagement, is soon entangled in two women’s lives. Michelle (Gwyneth Paltrow) is a Brooklyn neighbor who is having an affair with a married man, while Sandra (Vinessa Shaw) is a family acquaintance who is a healthier choice for the emotionally unstable Leonard.

» Review of “Two Lovers,” PAGE 16.

Phoenix’s retirement from acting—which he insists is neither a joke nor a publicity stunt—has transformed the film’s debut into a circus, fueled in large part by a bizarre appearance on “Late Show with David Letterman” that quickly became a YouTube sensation. Adding fuel to the media fire has been Paltrow’s recent decision to start doling out lifestyle advice a la Oprah Winfrey and Martha Stewart, a game plan that has met more than a few critics.

“I didn’t think it would get this attention,” Phoenix said of the clip showing his “Letterman” interview. “I didn’t think anybody would care.” But they have. Ben Stiller’s sendup of Phoenix at the Oscars on Sunday—in which he mimicked Phoenix by showing up with a scraggly beard, mumbling a lot and sticking his gum to the podium—drew laughs at the awards show. Even co-presenter Natalie Portman giggled.

And on Friday, a rep for Phoenix slammed Chicago-based psychiatrist Paul Dobransky for telling the L.A. Times the actor might be schizophrenic.

Meanwhile, Paltrow has been scrutinized sharply in newspapers and on many blogs recently for her broad-ranging forays into the arenas of guru-dom, from fitness to cooking.

In September, she appeared on “Oprah” to show off her post-pregnancy workout routine, then proceeded to mystify audiences by appearing with Mario Batali, the chef, in the PBS series “Spain ... on the Road Again,” where she drank soy milk and followed her quasi-vegan diet while others pigged out on pork. A few months later, Publishers Weekly announced that she had sold a cookbook proposal about the pleasures of cooking for the family. Then, it was announced that she was partnering with her (and Madonna’s) trainer, Tracy Anderson, to open a gym.

The enterprise attracting the most media sniping right now? Goop.com, a lifestyle Web site and e-mail introduced in September that hits subscribers’ inboxes on Thursdays with tips like “police your thoughts” and “eliminate white foods.”

While the site does have its loyal fans, many critics find the enterprise a bit puzzling.

“Why is it called Goop?” a writer for The Globe and Mail in Toronto sniped. “Perhaps ‘Any Old Load of Rubbish’ and ‘Learn From Me, Ungrateful Peasant’ were both taken.”

“I think the people who are criticizing it or criticizing the idea of it, don’t really get it, because if they did, they would like it,” Paltrow told People magazine Wednesday.

For his part, Phoenix has been busy responding to the controversy he created when he said he is going to quit acting.

After video hit the Internet last month capturing part of Phoenix’s debut rap performance at a Las Vegas club, speculation swirled that he was performing a big hoax.

“I don’t know where that comes

PROGRESSIONS OF A ‘RAPAHOLIC’

“Two Lovers” star Joaquin Phoenix has stirred a lot of controversy—and skepticism—since announcing he’s quitting acting to pursue music. Here’s the history. REDEYE.

OCTOBER 2008 Phoenix, out!

Phoenix tells “Extra” that “Two Lovers” will be his last performance as an actor and that he’s not doing films anymore. He says he’ll pursue music.

NOVEMBER 2008 For real

Putting on a show

Phoenix is spotted with brother-in-law Casey Affleck, who films a reported rap performance. A source tells People the camera is to document Phoenix’s transition from acting to music. Affleck is married to Phoenix’s sister Summer.

JANUARY 2009 The video

Phoenix performs a shaky rap number at a Las Vegas club. Video of the gig hits the Internet and is widely panned.

Is it a hoax?

Entertainment Weekly is one of the first entertainment outlets to suggest Phoenix’s filmed rap career could be a hoax, citing unnamed sources. Phoenix’s rep denies the claim.

FEBRUARY 2009 Seriously, people

Phoenix does publicity for “Two Lovers,” adamantly denying to The Associated Press that his rapping is a hoax.

The ‘Letterman’ effect

Phoenix makes an awkward appearance on David Letterman’s talk show in which he mumbles, gives one-word answers and puts his gum on Letterman’s desk. At the end, Letterman jokes, “I’m sorry you couldn’t be here tonight.”

The spoof

Ben Stiller mimics Phoenix at the Oscars, appearing with a beard and sunglasses and speaking inaudibly.

from,” Phoenix said. “If it comes from people that I’ve had a falling out with, that are [ticked] off at me?”

The video shows Phoenix, in a long, scraggly beard, rapping nearly inaudibly and ends with him losing his footing and falling off the stage.

He is adamant that his hip-hop career is real. “There’s not a hoax,” Phoenix said. “Might I be ridiculous? Might my career in music be laughable? Yeah, that’s possible, but that’s certainly not my intention.”

Asked if he thinks that “Two Lovers” would be a fitting final chapter for this cinematic career, Phoenix shrugs, saying that he hasn’t watched it. “I don’t see the movies I do,” Phoenix said. “Why would I?”

As for the criticism she has been getting? Paltrow seems to be shrugging that off too.

“People get a hit of energy when they are negative about something,” Paltrow responded last month in USA Today, when asked about being mocked for Goop. “And they do not understand why they do not have a happy life.”

L.A. TIMES, NYT NEWS SERVICES, REDEYE CONTRIBUTED.

DID YOU KNOW?

The name of Gwyneth Paltrow’s lifestyle Web site is derived from her initials, and its slogan, “Nourish the Inner Aspect,” positions it deeply in the New Age realm.

Don't underestimate the power of the Snuggie. This oversized blanket with sleeves already has spawned a pop-culture movement that makes Chia Pets look amateurish, and on Saturday, Snuggies take to Lincoln Park for their Chicago pub-crawl debut. Don a Snuggie or a backwards robe to join in on the fun starting at 5 p.m. at Harrigan's (2816 N. Halsted St. 773-248-5933), and follow the fleece-loving throngs to six more bars, including Durkin's Tavern (810 W. Diversey Pkwy. 773-525-2515) and The Trinity Bar (2721 N. Halsted St. 773-880-9293). The crawl ends up at The Beaumont (2020 N. Halsted St. 773-281-0177) at midnight. All Snuggie-clad drinkers receive $2 draft beers and $3 well drinks. The Boys are back

By M. Kathleen Pratt

The scene: Chicago caterers Dan Smith and Steve McDonagh, a.k.a. the Hearty Boys, became minor food world celebs a few years ago when they won “The Next Food Network Star” and launched “Party Line with the Hearty Boys” on the Food Network. But fame has its price. Since they sold their Boystown restaurant, HB, to focus on other projects (a cookbook, appearances—the usual celeb stuff), they realized how much they missed one-on-one interactions with diners.

As anyone who watched their show will tell you, however, these guys are creative. They dreamed up a way to feed their need—and the neighborhood—for five hours each week. Two weeks ago, they began transforming their Boystown catering space and mini-studio into a Sunday-only brunch destination. Stainless steel prep tables double as high-top tables, folding tables and chairs are set up around the perimeter, and an HBTV taping space becomes a waiters’ station. Though it’s a makeshift restaurant, it’s as inviting as any neighborhood spot that’s been around for years.

Of course, it’s hard not to feel comfortable when the Hearty Boys are in charge—these guys know how to work a room. On a recent visit, we watched McDonagh stop by nearly every table twice. Smith came out of the kitchen to make the rounds too. The staff is trained in their image. Our server was always there when we needed him, and often when we didn’t, yet never came off as overbearing.

The cuisine: Smith runs the show in the kitchen on Sundays, turning out several dishes you instantly know you’ll be craving next weekend. The shepherd’s pie ($9.50) alone is enough to bring us back, layered with crumbled sage sausage, crispy hash browns and delightfully rich-in-flavor-but-light-in-texture cream cheese-chive scrambled eggs. Other dishes are memorable because they’re just plain fun. Among the most playful are the handheld cardamom waffles ($8.50), a take on Belgian street waffles designed for dipping in a demitasse of burnt caramel sauce.

The cocktail list is McDonagh’s work and is further evidence that these guys enjoy making food fun. Tang stages a comeback in the Tang Cube Mimosa ($9), a twist on a champagne cocktail where cubes of the bright orange powder replace sugar cubes, while Ovaltine grows up in the cardamom rum-spiked Ovaltini ($9). Even the bloody mary flight ($12) has a sense of humor: The pictorial reference card for the bloody caesar-bloody bull-bloody mary trio includes, respectively, sketches of a bust of Julius Caesar, a raging bull and ... Mary Tyler Moore.

pop

Streaming this week on U2's MySpace page and scheduled for release Tuesday, "No Line on the Horizon," the band's latest studio album, is (mostly) a winning set whose centerpiece lyric can be found on "Get on Your Boots," the slashing, buzzing, bad choice for a lead single in which Bono sings: "Let me in the sound / Let me in the sound / Meet me in the sound."

The album is more of a textural triumph than anything, with the Dublin quartet reuniting with producers Brian Eno and Daniel Lanois, with whom they've had a little bit of success ("The Unforgettable Fire," "The Joshua Tree," "Achtung Baby") to craft a thickly layered soundscape.

Thematically, "No Line on the Horizon" is about love and war, about feeling disconnected and discombobulated, and about redemption, religion and the ridiculousness of being Bono. Indeed, on "I'll Go Crazy If I Don't Go Crazy Tonight," Bono sings that "the right to appear ridiculous is something I hold dear." And in "Stand Up Comedy," over a heavy guitar riff and pseudo-funk groove, Bono takes a self-deprecating swipe at his somewhat diminutive self, singing: "Stand up to rock stars / Napoleon is in high heels / Josephine, be careful of small men with big ideas."

The standouts, though, are the songs with the more textured and adventurous music and arrangements, such as "Magnificent" and "Moment of Surrender."

At its best, the album's the sound of a band pushing itself forward, figuring out a way to remain relevant while its frontman soap-boxes and saves the world.

TV

The Celebrity Apprentice

8 p.m. Sunday, NBC

The more unlikable Donald Trump gets, the more entertaining he is. And nothing puts The Donald's comb-over on end more than a sassing competitor. This year, the reality series has plenty independent-minded celebrities to butt heads with him, including Dennis Rodman, Jesse James, Andrew Dice Clay and Tionne Watkins. Nothing thrilled me more than seeing Joan Rivers scream "You're a despicable human being!" and throw a wine glass in the previews. CURT WAGNER, REDEYE

SONG

A.R. Rahman and Gulzar

Even before it won an Academy Award for best original song, "Jai Ho" from "Slumdog Millionaire" was a hit. And so was the dance that went with it. Now a veritable smorgasbord of "Jai Ho" dancer wannabes is popping up on YouTube, and it's filled with people of all ages—from babies to grown men. With the popularity of this dance, it shouldn't be long before people totally forget Soulja Boy's once-popular jig.

Are Web dramas ready for prime time? A new online series packs lots of violence and four-letter words into each 8- to 10-minute episode, so it won't be for everyone. But the production values of "Angel of Death" are unusually rich. This Crackle.com series could be considered a step forward for Web dramas, even by those who choose to snub it.

America

8 p.m. Saturday, Lifetime
Rosie O'Donnell produced, co-wrote and co-stars in this made-for-TV film about a kid who gets lost in foster care. O'Donnell, a foster mother herself, is heavy-handed with her narration about the screwed-up system, but she mostly gets things right. She's surprisingly restrained as a therapist helping troubled teen America. Newcomer Philip Johnson (above, with O'Donnell) knocks it out of the park with his seething portrayal of the title character. CURT WAGNER, REDEYE

MOVIE

Street Fighter: The Legend of Chun-Li

In theaters now

Common sense says there's no reason to make a follow-up to a bad movie 15 years later. Take that, common sense! On the plus side, improving upon 1994's ultra-lame, Jean-Claude Van Damme-starring "Street Fighter" is much easier than explaining the existence of another movie based on this 20-year-old video game franchise. "Legend" is just a parade of clichés and performances ranging from terrible to really terrible.

I'm secretly bad for you!

Albany Times Union

ALBANY, N.Y. Worst food in America? According to Men's Health magazine, it's the Aussie cheese fries with ranch dressing at Outback Steakhouse.

This concoction of fries topped with melted cheese, chopped bacon and spicy ranch dressing contains 2,900 calories. That's the equivalent of 14 Krispy Kreme doughnuts. And, since most people should be consuming 1,500 to 2,000 calories per day, that's a day and a half's worth right there.

Not to pick just on Outback, Men's Health evaluated dishes from other restaurants in compiling its 20 worst foods in America. The worst dessert? The chocolate-chip paradise pie at Chili's.

"We start with a warm, chewy bar layered with chocolate chips, walnuts and coconut," the Chili's description reads. "Topped with vanilla ice cream and drizzled with hot fudge and caramel."

The damage? 1,600 calories. That's the equivalent of three Big Macs.

This is all well and good, but really, who doesn't know that something called "chocolate-chip paradise pie" is bad for you? What about the foods we think are healthy, or at least not all that unhealthy, that turn out to be bad for us?

Here's a look at other foods that aren't always good for you.

Muffins

A honey-bran-raisin muffin has 500 calories, a pumpkin muffin has 650 and even a reduced-fat blueberry muffin has 450. By comparison, a glazed doughnut has 220 calories, a jelly-filled doughnut 250 and chocolate-frosted doughnut 230.

Bagels

As with muffins, the main problem with bagels is size. And add to that: Cream cheese.

Soda

Drinking a 12-ounce can of soda is like pouring as many as 12 teaspoons of sugar into your body.

Chicken wings

Each wing is about 100 calories (sans dipping sauce). That means a dozen, a typical order, is about 1,200.

'Two Lovers' exceptional

By Mick LaSalle
SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

If you want to get an idea of what makes "Two Lovers" an exceptionally well-written and directed film, notice filmmaker James Gray's careful selection of detail.

Very little is explicit. The audience is left to infer much from spotty information, and yet a full and specific picture emerges. We are never in doubt of the truth of the characters and the absolute solidity of the world being depicted.

Gray ("Little Odessa"), an American director, has long been a particular favorite of French cinephiles, but this movie marks his first venture into that favorite of French genres, the romantic drama. "Two Lovers" combines positive aspects of both the European and Hollywood traditions

Joaquin Phoenix brings a tremendous weight of truth to his performance as Leonard, a man in his 30s who has some kind of treatable mental disorder, probably manic-depression, when two beautiful women (Vinessa Shaw and Gwyneth Paltrow) enter his orbit.

Watching "Two Lovers" is like life, in the sense that you only get the tip of the iceberg, but you see enough to figure out all you need to know, and you're never in doubt that the iceberg is really there.

Rich Dad Poor Dad

My Poor Dad would say,
"I Work For My Money."

My Rich Dad said,
"My Money Works For Me."

- Robert Kiyosaki

One dad was highly educated and intelligent; he had a Ph.D. and had completed four years of undergraduate work in less than two years. He then went to do his advanced studies... all on full financial scholarships.

My other dad never finished the eighth grade.

Both men were successful in their careers, working hard all their lives. Both earned substantial incomes.

Yet my highly educated dad struggled financially all his life and the other dad would become one of the richest men I had ever known.

One died leaving tens of millions of dollars to his family, charities, and his church. The other left a legacy of unpaid bills. Both men were strong, charismatic, and influential.

Both men offered me advice, but they did not advise the same things.

Having two dads as advisors offered me the perspective of contrasting points of view: one of a rich man and one of a poor man. This forced me to think about, and ultimately choose, a way of thinking for myself.

A way of thinking that assures long-term wealth and true prosperity!

Obama: Troops out by 2010

Declaring "I have come to speak to you about how the war in Iraq will end," President Obama on Friday moved to fulfill the defining promise of his campaign, saying all U.S. combat troops will be withdrawn by the end of August 2010.

$182M OK'd for O'Hare

Chicago has received the go-ahead to spend $182 million in airline passenger ticket taxes to fund design drawings for a possible future phase of expanding O'Hare, officials said Friday. The Federal Aviation Administration on Thursday approved the use of the ticket taxes to pay for the design of two new runways, an extension to an existing runway and a planned western passenger terminal.

Burris' lawyer speaks out

U.S. Sen. Roland Burris' (D-Ill.) lawyer on Friday warned of a fight if lawmakers and Gov. Quinn try to dislodge Burris from office by approving a special election for his Senate seat—and the warning included an indication that Burris could run in 2010.

Wal-Mart employee set self on fire

A 58-year-old Wal-Mart employee who said he "couldn't take it anymore" lit himself on fire outside the Bloomingdale's store where he worked Thursday night and later was pronounced dead, authorities said.

QUINN WON'T CUT FREE RIDES

Gov. Quinn said Friday that he would not sign legislation under consideration by the Illinois House to take away free bus and train rides from all but low-income seniors.

The governor said he thinks the free ride program, put in place last year under predecessor Rod Blagojevich, is worthy even as transit agencies face severe money woes.

"I think free rides for seniors is a good policy," Quinn said following an appearance at a Joliet high school. "I hope they don't pass a law ending the program. I think it's a step forward."

The measure sponsored by state Rep. Suzanne Bassi (R-Palatine) would limit free rides on CTA, Metra and Pace to seniors who meet the state's low-income guidelines.

"I don't think I would sign such a bill that would limit it so drastically," Quinn said. "I think we always want to keep an eye on everything, especially in tough economic times, but I'm not really interested in going to that program and slashing it. I think free rides for seniors is a basic public policy that we can support and maintain even in tough economic times."

Quinn also suggested that perhaps more people should qualify for help from the state.

"There are others in our society who don't perhaps have the age or obtain the age of 65 who are right now living from check to check and worried about their economic livelihood," Quinn said. "So I think we need to keep everybody in mind at this time. There are different ways to help people, and I'm going to be talking about that in the budget address."

DOING THE MATH

The CTA estimates a potential revenue shortfall of $242 million this year. The agency said it provided more than 21 million free rides for seniors last year. Seniors took 2.3 million free trips on Metra and about 1.7 million rides on Pace.

TRIBUNE FILE

People not ecstatic over billboard

A drug-suggestive billboard promoting the musical "Xanadu" that sparked criticism from neighbors and parents whose kids attend an elementary school across the street was taken down Friday, an aide to the local alderman said.

The large sign at the southwest corner of Broadway and Melrose Street promoted the show with a quote from a review in Vanity Fair magazine: "IT'S LIKE TAKING ECSTASY." It was taken down about 1:20 p.m. Friday, an aide to Ald. Tom Tunney (44th) said.

The billboard was removed hours after a story about it appeared on the Tribune's Web site.

The billboard had been visible from the front and playground of Nettelhorst Elementary School, at 352 N. Broadway in the Lakeview neighborhood.

Is Springer show leaving Chicago?

Jerry Springer's syndicated TV show looks to be headed out of Chicago, lured by tax credits to Stamford, Conn., sources said.

Connecticut Gov. Jodi Rell on Friday said the state and NBC Universal are working on a deal to establish a TV production studio in Stamford, about 30 miles from New York City, the Tribune's Tower Ticker blog reported.

Sources close to negotiations say NBC Universal Domestic Television Distribution, the company's syndicated TV arm, plans to relocate "The Jerry Springer Show" and "The Steve Wilkos Show" from Chicago to the new facility this summer in time for the start of the 2009-10 TV season. Maury Povich's syndicated NBC Universal program "Maury" would move there from New York.

The deal could be concluded in the next few weeks.

Here's what I'm
weekend.

BULLS VS.
HOUSTON
7 p.m. Saturday, WGN
All right, new guys, show us what you got.

BLACKHAWKS VS. L.A.
2 p.m. Sunday, WGN
Only one can be crowned the winner—
yeah, that was cheesy.

NASCAR speeds into Las Vegas—how will the drivers pass the time?

Gentlemen, start your sinning! NASCAR rolls into Las Vegas this weekend for the Shelby 427, which raises the question: Was the race shortened from the Shelby 500 to make more time for gambling? No matter, the green flag doesn't drop until Sunday, which leaves plenty of time for NASCAR's drivers to be tourists.

RedEye humbly suggests some Sin City activities for the sport's finest. MICHAEL HINES, REDEYE

LET IT RIDE

Skip the $15 blackjack tables, fellas. It's not a trip to Vegas unless you risk at least 10 grand on your car's number.

TAKE IN A SHOW

We're thinking Carrot Top at Luxor is a good fit.

GRAND CANYON DAY TRIP

Rent a sports car. With professional driving skills, you'll be there and back in a half-hour, tops—an hour if you make a pit stop at one of those famous legal brothels.

GET HITCHED

In the grand tradition of Britney Spears and childhood friend Jason Alexander—or Ross and Rachel in "Friends"—throw caution to the wind and get yourself a surprise spouse!

HIT THE BUFFET

Get there before Tony Stewart shows up if you want any macaroni salad.

WATCH A FIGHT

Floyd Mayweather Jr. won't be lacing up the gloves at Caesars Palace over the weekend, but there's gotta be a celebrity boxing freak show somewhere on the strip. Danny Bonaduce vs. Octo Mom? Ask your hotel concierge.

Five on one

Our panelists are like the judges of the sports world—you can always find them on the bench! Sign up for weekday Five on Five at redeychicago.com/facebookfives.

THE TOPIC

If Chicago athletes had a YouTube channel like Mayor Daley's, what videos would you like to see?

SUPRIYA DOSHI
sdoshi@tribune.com

A montage of Chicago coaches blowing up last year. It would be hours long.

JIM WALSH

KAKURO EDITED BY MICHAEL MEPHAM

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at redyechicago.com/answers.

Where in the world is Amy Winehouse?

Amy Winehouse could soon be synonymous with the white sandy beaches of St. Lucia.

The Grammy winner has been hanging out on the Caribbean island since at least January, and according to reports in the British press and elsewhere, she is showing no signs of leaving at the moment. So when does a vacation become a permanent relocation—and what has Winehouse been up to all these weeks?

Well, RedEye has the answer to at least one of those questions. Here's a look at the 25-year-old's reported activities.

LAST MONTH

Winehouse shows up in a hotel piano bar and wows a crowd of tourists by playing music and singing.

She is spotted on the beach with hunky former rugby player Joshua Bowman.

She issues no comment when People magazine first confirms her jailed husband, Blake Fielder-Civil, had started divorce proceedings against her.

Later, she is quoted in a British tabloid as saying she won't let Fielder-Civil divorce her.

She also is quoted as saying that she doesn't want to go back to England and that she wants to wait for Fielder-Civil in St. Lucia.

Reports surface that Winehouse's father, Mitch, said his daughter has twice been at "death's door" because of substance abuse.

When her London home is burglarized, a rep for Winehouse says her favorite guitar was in St. Lucia.

Winehouse is still in St. Lucia when it's announced that she'll be headlining Coachella with Paul McCartney, the Killers, the Cure and Morrissey in April.

THIS MONTH

Winehouse is photographed riding a horse in her Caribbean paradise.

Winehouse is hospitalized on the island. Her rep won't say why, but tells People the singer might return to Britain "soon."

A unnamed source tells People that Winehouse might start recording on the island.

J-Hud stays strong

Four months after the murder of her mother, brother and nephew, Jennifer Hudson said Friday that she's now "in a very good place." In a live interview with Oprah Winfrey, Hudson said performing has been like therapy, according to The Associated Press. She didn't talk directly about the murders. Hudson said her emotional response last month to winning the Grammy for best R&B album was triggered when Whitney Houston gave her the award. "As soon as she stepped out on the stage, I lost it," she said.

Perry's killer plan

Tyler Perry wants to kill off his Madea character. "I would love to see Madea die a slow death in the next film," Perry tells The Associated Press, even though the character's latest incarnation, "Madea Goes to Jail," grossed $41 million in its opening weekend. Perry says the foul-tempered granny is "a whole lot of fun to watch. But to do it is a nightmare."

HOT DATE

May 11

When No Doubt will perform on the CW's "Gossip Girl," according to usmagazine.com.

Wedding details

Their reps issued no comment, but details trickled out Friday about Tom Brady and Gisele Bündchen's reported nuptials Thursday night in California. The quarterback and the supermodel had a small gathering in their home after the wedding, according to People. And Us Weekly reports Bündchen wore a form-fitting ivory lace strapless gown with a trumpet skirt by Dolce & Gabbana.

All in the family

Looks like Hugh Hefner might not be walking former "Girl Next Door" Kendra Wilkinson down the aisle at her wedding to NFL player Hank Baskett. (BTW, the June ceremony is at the Playboy mansion). "I would definitely love for him to walk me down," Wilkinson tells E! Online of Hef, but says "it makes more sense" for her bro to do it.

'Top Chef' drama

Is there something cooking between "Top Chef" vets Hosea Rosenberg and Leah Cohen?

The New York Post reports the cheftestants were spotted smooching at a bar. The pair shared an awkward kiss on the show, and later said they regretted it. Both were in relationships during the filming of Season 5. Rosenberg won the title of "Top Chef" in the episode that aired Wednesday. There was no comment from the show's rep.

Barrymore bitten by 'Twilight'?

Drew Barrymore is in talks with Summit Entertainment to direct "Eclipse," the third installment of the "Twilight" series, ew.com reports. Neither Summit nor Barrymore's rep would comment. Barrymore just finished working on her directorial debut, "Whip It!," starring Ellen Page.
